Eastern Style Pizza 1970's

Original Location 1990's

Philly's Best 2010

Our family started selling Philly steaks two generations ago in Philadelphia. Constantine Bottos, our grandfather, was a cook in an upscale steak house in Philly when the depression hit. In order for the restaurant to survive, it followed the direction of another restaurant that was grilling scraps of meat and onions in a roll. Take note, in the beginning, Philly steaks had no cheese.

Our grandfather opened his own Philly Steak/Pizza shop in the 50's near upper Darby, PA. His entire family wound up opening little Philly Steak/Pizza shops throughout the western suburbs of Philly. Drexel Hill Style Pizza, Secane Pizza, Thunderbird Pizza, Town Line Pizza are a few of the family pizza shops associated with our family and still exist 50 years later.

Our family migrated to Chicago and my father followed suite opening shops called Eastern Style Pizza. One still exists today on Touhy avenue.

In 1990, my brother and I started Philly's Best on Belmont avenue. Shipping pure tenderloin from Liberty Bell Steak Company, bread from Amoroso Bread Company, and our cheese from Cedar Farms, we are, always will be, committed to bringing our Philly heritage to Chicago and beyond.

Thank you and the generations of customers for choosing us. Without you, we are nothing.

ed so you don't eat our desserts for dinner!

What? People from Philly know exactly what these are. Individual cakes shipped directly to us from Philadelphia.
